Sponsorship packages are aimed at providing sponsors with a worthwhile return on investment. This conference offers a unique opportunity to increase your company's exposure to those already undertaking next generation sequencing or those thinking of including next generation sequencing in their research projects. We are confident that the benefits of sponsorship will offer effective exposure to your company or organisation not only over the period of the conference but also in the years ahead.

You will receive a high level of exposure directly with the target audience throughout the conference as well as being included in all the conference promotion.
